her success at reaching the miners with the needed medicines and food became the talk of the west, as hundreds of miners considered her their savior.

The diagnosis of bipolar disorder requires an elevated, expansive or irritable mood plus several additional symptoms.