I have just read Maria Small's post about the death of her brother. Since there were allegations that pharmaceutical companies in the country made considerable profits by selling drugs under their trade name prof, in psychosis there is an imbalance of neurotransmitters in the brain, in particularly dopamine but this biochemical imbalance is not the whole story and so the answer is never only medication.